Cannery Spurns Union Petition For NLRB Ballot Vandalism Acts 'Coincidental' With Walkout

Declaring the union dealt "harshly" with the firm of Penns Manor, Inc. at Cornwells Heights in the recent controversy involving Local 169, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Warehousemen (AFL), the firm late yesterday announced it would not join the union's request for an election to determine if the majority of the cannery's 16 regular employees desire to have Local 169 as their bargaining agent.

"Last week we were willing to join with the union in petitioning the National Labor Relations Board for an election," Frank E. Hahn, of Philadelphia, attorney representing the firm, said. "But following the series of vandal acts at the cannery plant, the intimidations of workers and the following of company automobiles and trucks, we refuse to join in such a petition. If the election is granted, we will be glad to abide by its decision," Hahn said.

The union yesterday asked the NLRB for the right to hold an election at the plant to see if the employees desire to recognize the union as their bargaining agent.

Edward Fadigan, secretary-treasurer of the Local, said the union was careful not to accuse the union of the vandalism, but pointed out they were "coincidental with the walkout."

Boy, 11, Admits 'Campfire' Causing $20,000 Barn Blaze

NEWPORTVILLE, July 10—The fire which demolished Thomas Svenson's $20,000 barn and the roof of a nearby garage was started by an 11-year-old boy who made an indoor "campfire," investigation by Fire Marshall Robert Graham disclosed yesterday.

After considerable "leg work" the marshal arrested the boy and turned him over to juvenile court authorities. Graham said the boy told him he started the "campfire" on the first floor of the barn. When the flames ignited hay spread on the floor, the boy ran outside, watched the barn go up in flames, and reported the fire to a neighbor.

One hundred tons of hay, stored by James and Charles O'Neill, were lost in the barn. The loss was only partially covered by insurance.

Firemen from Newportville, Edgely, Croydon, Newport and Hulmeville companies, the Willow Grove Second Alarmers and Bucks County Rescue Squad answered calls to the fire Wednesday. Newportville Fire Co. returned yesterday, when the ruins of the barn burst into flame.

Beria Faces Death As Russian Court Holds Secret Trial

LONDON, July 10—(INS)—Lavrenti P. Beria, who climbed to power in Russia over the bodies of those he purged as head of the dread secret police, today faces a traitor's death for losing in a convulsive struggle within the Kremlin to succeed Joseph Stalin.

Stripped of his jobs as Deputy Premier and Minister of Internal Affairs and ousted from the Communist Party, Beria faces trial by the Soviet Supreme Court as a traitor in the employ of "foreign capital."

The drastic action against Beria, considered recently by some observers as even more powerful than Premier Georgi Malenkov, was contained in two brief announcements published in Soviet newspapers and carried to the rest of the world by Radio Moscow and the Soviet News Agency Tass.

An accompanying editorial in Pravda, the official Communist Party newspaper, accused Beria of plotting to seize power with the ultimate aim of following "a policy of capitulation which would in the end lead to the restoration of capitalism."

Hailed repeatedly as a hero by Pravda in the past, Beria was described editorially today as a "bourgeois renegade" and "an agent of international imperialism."

Fullam Orders 5 Subpoenaed; Urges Tape Use

DOYLESTOWN, July 10 — Only about 10 Bristol twp. residents attended Common Pleas Court today, as hearings were resumed on appeals to two suspended township police officers.

John P. Fullam, attorney for the suspended men, Edward Ellison and Ralph Ragnoli, has had five witnesses subpoenaed, including other township policemen and Commissioner Oscar Booz. He said he did not know whether he would call on all his witnesses today.

Meanwhile, a request by Fullam to submit, as evidence, tape-recorded information, gathered in police inquiries by the Bristol twp. Commissioners, still is under advisement by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite. Lawrence Monroe, Bristol twp. solicitor has objected to using the recorded evidence.

The officers were suspended Jan. 16. Ellison says he was accused of accepting a $10 bribe from Byron J. Ramsey, who was allegedly stopped by Ellison and Ragnoli for speeding.

Ragnoli has said his suspension was for not reporting the bribe, and for concealing in a police application the fact that he once had trouble with juvenile authorities.

Following the suspensions, the civil service commission held closed hearings and recommended to the township commissioners that the officers be removed from the force. The suspended officers were discharged at a special commissioners' meeting.

The officers, in court and on previous occasions, have denied the bribe and said they never saw Ramsey.

Truck Bill Killed By 86-105 Vote

HARRISBURG, July 10 — (INS) — The Big Truck Bill was halted today by an 86-105 defeat.

Party lines were crossed by Democrats in the House to spike the measure which would have boosted the top weights of trucks from 45,000 to at least 58,500 pounds.

MAGISTRATES TO MEET

RIEGLSVILLE, July 10 — Bucks Co. Magistrates' Association will hold a joint dinner meeting, entertaining Northampton Co. Magistrates, Thursday at 7 p. m. at the Delaware Oaks here. Albert E. DuBois, chief inspector, Detective division, Philadelphia Police department, will be speaker.

DOYLESTOWN, July 10 — The annual countywide Republican picnic is scheduled for Saturday, August 1, rain or shine, in the well-equipped picnic grove of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County at Buckingham.

This affair holds all records for food consumed per person present and if an actual count was ever made, it is quite likely that the sandwich-eating and the root-beer consumption records would be held by a number of GOP members who attend the outing.

The 1953 picnic, like the others, will be the "biggest and best ever." The Loyal Republican Club picnic grove has been enlarged and a new clam shed added for the protection of picnickers in case of rain. The committee has even added a first aid tent for those who underestimate or overestimate their capacity for picnic food.

The Loyal Republican Club picnic is for members of the club and the Ladies' Auxiliary, and will be a family affair.

If the records of last year's food consumption are correct and the newspaper accounts show that it was a complete clean-up-the-committee will again order 75 hams, 7,000 clams, 200 pounds of cheese, 4,000 ears of sweet corn, quarter of mile of hot dogs, hundreds of loaves of bread and enough refreshments to quench the thirsts of the youngsters and the grown-ups from start to finish.

State Senator Edward B. Watson, who started the Loyal Republican Club some years ago and has sparked its activities ever since, is chairman of the picnic committee on arrangements.

Assisting him are Jimmy Plummer, Harrison Gift, Clifford and Bert Darrah.

25 UP FOR INDUCTION

Local Board 35, Selective Service reports that 25 men from the local board travelled to Schuylkill Arsenal, Philadelphia, this morning for pre-induction physical examinations, prior to entering the armed forces. The trip was made by bus from Goodwill Fire Co. station.

GOOD RESULTS

A recent classified adv. in the Bristol Courier brought immediate results for the advertiser, Mrs. Bernard Moeller, 3703 Pennypack Street, Phila., who reported, "I had good results with the classified adv. I put in the Bristol Courier, and I am immensely pleased with the results it brought me."

Fullam Orders 5 Subpoenaed; Urges Tape Use

DOYLESTOWN, July 10 — Only about 10 Bristol twp. residents attended Common Pleas Court today, as hearings were resumed on appeals to two suspended township police officers.

John P. Fullam, attorney for the suspended men, Edward Ellison and Ralph Ragnoli, has had five witnesses subpoenaed, including other township policemen and Commissioner Oscar Boos. He said he did not know whether he would call on all his witnesses today.

Meanwhile, a request by Fullam to submit, as evidence, tape-recorded information, gathered in police inquiries by the Bristol twp. Commissioners, still is under advisement by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite. Lawrence Monroe, Bristol twp. solicitor has objected to using the recorded evidence.

The officers were suspended Jan. 16. Ellison says he was accused of accepting a $10 bribe from Byron J. Ramsey, who was allegedly stopped by Ellison and Ragnoli for speeding.

Ragnoli has said his suspension was for not reporting the bribe, and for concealing in a police application the fact that he once had trouble with juvenile authorities.

Following the suspensions, the civil service commission held closed hearings and recommended to the township commissioners that the officers be removed from the force. The suspended officers were discharged at a special commissioners' meeting.

The officers, in court and on previous occasions, have denied the bribe and said they never saw Ramsey.

Fine Grants 18th Execution Stay To Convicted Killers

HARRISBURG, July 10 — Executions of the three Philadelphia convicts in a fatal shooting at Feasterville Inn were postponed yesterday by Gov. John S. Fine, in the murderers' 18th stay of execution.

The death sentences imposed on David Darcy, Harold Foster and Harry Zeits who fatally shot William Kelly at the Inn Dec. 22, 1947, were postponed four months. Gov. Fine said he acted on advice from Attorney General Robert H. Woodside, who cited pending litigation in federal courts.

In the shooting spree, Alan Holerman was permanently paralyzed by a bullet Zeits fired into his neck.

A stay of execution previously granted to Darcy by the Federal Court of Appeals is still in effect. Woodside said, making it necessary to issue respite to Foster and Zeits as well.

The truck swerved and turned over three times before stopping.

Fear Clergy Quiz

WASHINGTON — Senators who forced J. E. Matthews to quit his investigations subcommittee post were wary today of his request for a chance to prove his charge of Pro-Communism in the Protestant clergy. Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, chairman of the group, reversed a previous refusal and accepted Matthews' resignation as executive director yesterday shortly after President Eisenhower angrily condemned Matthews' charges. There was no indication the two events were related. Some committee members indicated fear that approval of Matthews' request might mushroom into a broad investigation of the clergy that all members of the subcommittee, including McCarthy, insist they don't want.

Cards, Guards Bar Outsiders At Levitt Pools

LEVITTOWN, July 10—Identification cards for the Levittown swimming pools will restrict bathing to residents of that town only. David Melnick, of 29 Flower lane, chairman of the swimming pool committee of the Levittown Civic Association, announced today.

Identification cards will be issued to bar non-residents from the pools, Melnick announced.

At a meeting Monday at 9 p. m. at the Levittown Community House, the committee will discuss the procedure to be employed in distributing the coveted cards and also to recruit volunteer swimming pool gate guards. They will operate on two-hour shifts at the pool.

The Brook Park pool is open 77 hours a week, and the Elderberry Pond pool, when completed, will be available to Levittowners for a similar period, Melnick said.

Radar Wins Test In Dover Court

DOVER, Del., July 10—(INS)—Radar, a potent defense aid in World War II, proved itself today as equally useful in peacetime after winning its first court test in Dover as an aid to police in their war against speedsters.

A state superior court jury found James A. Moffitt, of Smyrna, guilty of driving 63 miles an hour in a 50-mile limit zone last Jan. 6. He was arrested after policemen operating radar speed recording equipment radioed ahead to have him stopped.

Defense counsel protested that the arresting patrolman acted without authority since he did not witness the offense.

The jury decided against the defendant, however, in what was believed to be the first conviction based on evidence obtained by radar.

ON THE ALERT

PHILADELPHIA, July 10—(INS)—Police were on the alert today for a prowler in a West Philadelphia neighborhood who choked a 46-year-old woman as she sat in her darkened parlor listening to the radio.

The victim, Mrs. Mary Burns, was treated at a hospital for bruises of the neck and hysteria. She told police her assailant fled out the kitchen door after she fought him off.

Bensalem Plans 20-Room School

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, July 10—Bensalem twp. School Board this week told School Superintendent Robert K. Schafer to collect data for construction of a 20-room elementary school for 640 pupils. Schafer estimated the school cost at $750,000 to $1,000,000.

The elementary school will be erected on a 20-acre plot at Hulmeville road and Washington lane, Newportville Heights. The board also directed Schafer to appoint a committee of school men to view prospective sites for a second elementary school, preferably in the Trevoise area.

Schafer said 1,233 elementary school pupils are expected in the township in September, as compared with 1,141 last fall.

Block Party Set Next Week By Levittown Players

A mammoth block party with dancing, games and refreshments will be held on the evenings of Friday, July 31 and Saturday, August 1, according to Al Powell, 515 Stonybrook Lane, president of the Levittown Players.

The block party will take place on Pinelake Road, which connects the Pinewood and Lakeside sections of Levittown. The road is double width, 51 feet wide, and will be roped off for the two evenings.

The party will feature popular music and dancing at one end, square dancing at the other and booths between the two dancing groups to serve refreshments and handle the many games of skill.

Special games for children will also be set up, according to Mrs. Ruth Bett, 50 Emerald Lane, chairman of the Block Party group for the Levittown Little Theatre group.

Mrs. Bett also announced that in the event of rain on the scheduled evenings, the block party dates would be changed to the following Friday and Saturday, August 7-8.

The Players themselves will set up and handle most of the booths. The group is sponsoring the Block Party to raise funds for necessary stage equipment and then eventual purchase of a barn or other large building easily convertible into a theatre. At present, the group must rent theatres for production of shows and for rehearsals.

Farmland Available By Draining Move

WASHINGTON, July 9—(INS)—

The Agriculture Department reported today that there are about 50 million acres in the United States that could be drained and put to use as farm land.

Most of this land is situated in the eastern half of the nation, and some of it already is partly under cultivation. None of the land, however, has been properly drained, and 20 million acres are totally undeveloped.

The department also pointed out that an additional 75 million acres of marsh land is unsuited for agriculture under present conditions, but if drained it properly could be used for wildlife, forests and recreation.

The report said the problem of too much water is as acute in some eastern sectors as the problem of too little water in the southwest.

The 20 million undeveloped acres which could be converted into farming land is found along the Mississippi River in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, and in the coastal plains and other parts of the southeast.

Drainage projects have been making considerable progress in the United States in the past few years, however, and the 1950 census indicated that nearly 103 million acres of land were involved in such enterprises.

This acreage was concentrated largely in the corn belt, lake states and the Mississippi delta. In the three decades between 1920 and 1950, the greatest headway in drainage was made in the delta and corn belt states.

What little drainage has oc-urred in the western states has been primarily in connection with irrigation.

Drainage increased by nearly 16 million acres in the decade between 1940 and 1950. Half of the increase was in Louisiana, and rest in Texas, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Florida, and Illinois.

In some cases farm drainage programs have been aided by development of major drainage outlets by the Army Engineers. This has been particularly true in the Mississippi alluvial valley, where improved outlets have encouraged organization or reactivation of many drainage districts.

A drainage project can be as small as a few spots on an individual farm or as large as hundreds or thousands of acres that hold too much water.

But drainage of additional land probably will play a big part in increasing farm acreage so that American agriculture can meet the production goals of the future.

There were more than 282,000 United States Steel Corporation stockholders in May, 1953, compared with approximately 280,000 three months before. In both instances, the figures allow for duplication of holders of the two classes of stock.

Cards, Guards Bar Outsiders At Levitt Pools

LEVITTOWN, July 10—Identification cards for the Levittown swimming pools will restrict bathing to residents of that town only. David Melnick, of 29 Flower lane, chairman of the swimming pool committee of the Levittown Civic Association, announced today.

Identification cards will be issued to bar non-residents from the pools, Melnick announced.

At a meeting Monday at 9 p. m. at the Levittown Community House, the committee will discuss the procedure to be employed in distributing the coveted cards and also to recruit volunteer swimming pool gate guards. They will operate on two-hour shifts at the pool.

The Brook Park pool is open 77 hours a week, and the Elderberry Pond pool, when completed, will be available to Levittowners for a similar period, Melnick said.

Radar Wins Test In Dover Court

DOVER, Del., July 10—(INS)—Radar, a potent defense aid in World War II, proved itself today as equally useful in peacetime after winning its first court test in Dover as an aid to police in their war against speedsters.

A state superior court jury found James A. Moffitt, of Smyrna, guilty of driving 63 miles an hour in a 50-mile limit zone last Jan. 6. He was arrested after policemen operating radar speed recording equipment radioed ahead to have him stopped.

Defense counsel protested that the arresting patrolman acted without authority since he did not witness the offense.

The jury decided against the defendant, however, in what was believed to be the first conviction based on evidence obtained by radar.

ON THE ALERT

PHILADELPHIA, July 10—(INS)—Police were on the alert today for a prowler in a West Philadelphia neighborhood who choked a 46-year-old woman as she sat in her darkened parlor listening to the radio.

The victim, Mrs. Mary Burns, was treated at a hospital for bruises of the neck and hysteria. She told police her assailant fled out the kitchen door after she fought him off.

Bensalem Plans 20-Room School

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, July 10—Bensalem twp. School Board this week told School Superintendent Robert K. Schafer to collect data for construction of a 20-room elementary school for 640 pupils. Schafer estimated the school cost at $750,000 to $1,000,000.

The elementary school will be erected on a 20-acre plot at Hulmeville road and Washington lane, Newportville Heights. The board also directed Schafer to appoint a committee of school men to view prospective sites for a second elementary school, preferably in the Trevoise area.

Schafer said 1,233 elementary school pupils are expected in the township in September, as compared with 1,141 last fall.

SPEEDING THE MAILS
Will all first class mail, except local and semi-local, be transported by air instead of by rail in the near future? There is a possibility of this. Delivery of letters would be speeded greatly, although the cost might be slightly higher.

Postmaster General Summerfield is reported to have asked the country's major air lines to prepare to make a test run of their capabilities to take over the task of moving practically all first class mail. Mail and freight cargo specialists for major scheduled air lines are reported to have staffs preparing schedules as well as estimates for the test.

The Postmaster General is reported to be exploring the possibilities of air transport for letters as a major project in improving the postal service and eliminating the deficit.

At a conference with the Postmaster General, representatives of the air lines estimated delivery times for most first class mail could be cut by at least two-thirds. They asserted 85 to 90 per cent of such mail designed for distant points could be carried by plane.

According to tentative plans, the first test of the switch from rail to air will be made on the New York-Chicago run. In fact, test movement of all New York-Chicago first class mail by air may be put into effect early next fall.

The air lines now move only 1.5 per cent of the country's mail volume at premium rates. Comparison of the rates paid the railroads and the air lines by the Post Office Department is not easy. Air mail is moved at a cost of 45 cents a ton mile, not including a subsidy. Railroads are paid 36 cents a ton mile for first class mail, and have asked for an increase of 45 per cent in rates. But the railroad rate includes working space for clerks who sort and redistribute mail in mail cars. Another factor involved is that air mail travels by more direct route, thus reducing the mileage. Planes would move roughly 5 per cent of the country's total mail load if all first class mail that could be handled by the air lines were turned over to them.

By air, letters can be delivered from New York to Los Angeles, or vice-versa, overnight. The Post Office Department considers six days normal delivery time for letters sent by rail. It is obvious that mail deliveries would be speeded by a switch from rail movement of letters. But whether this could be done without an increase in rates can only be determined by the projected trial runs.

Your Birthday
by STELLA

FRIDAY, JULY 10 — Born today, you are a rather stern disciplinarian. You feel that you are a law unto yourself. You want others to do as you say, not necessarily as you do. This can lead to considerable difficulty. There is definitely something of the "school-marm" in your nature. Yet, you are kindly, sympathetic and have a very definite talent for teaching. Just remember that in teaching others, you sometimes have to follow the example which you are, yourself, offering to others.

You have a definite gift for being able to give sound advice. People are inclined to turn to you whenever they are in serious difficulty. Your calm detachment is something upon which others learn to depend. There is a deeply spiritual side to your nature and you might, at some period in your life, decide to enter the church.

You women are not quite as deeply serious as the men folks and are disinclined to utilize your mental energies to their fullest extent. You are warm-hearted and more emotional. You are fond of society and pretty clothes. You look forward to the time when you can have your own home and family. Then, when that time comes, your entire life is likely to revolve about your close, family group. You will make a fine wife and an understanding mother. You will probably utilize much of your energy in community and church philanthropies. You believe in doing good, rather than merely talking about it!

Tourist Comforted By Portugal Hills

By INEZ ROBB
(International News Service Correspondent)

LISBON, July 10—(INS)—And now, as I bid a fond farewell to Portugal—I wish I didn't have to!

At this point, I would like to drag my feet. I fell in love with Portugal at first sight in 1939, and have been true in my tourist fashion ever since. (Sixteen years! That's a long time for any affair to last in this day and age.)

Portugal occupies the lovely hills and valleys that roll down from Spain to the Atlantic ocean, a more green and gentle land than Spain. It manages to crowd a lot of charming scenery into a relatively small space.

In addition, it is a very comfortable country for the foot-sore tourist. He can just sit with his feet up and relax without feeling impelled to run around exploring museums and art galleries. The Portuguese have some of both, but nothing imperative.

No one regards the visitor as a low life if he decides to go swimming at Estoril instead of swooning off to the cathedral. In fact, Portuguese friends are likely to grab a swim suit and come along.

But if one is the eager beaver or repulsive type tourist, there are ruins here. In fact, the ruins of a Moorish fort overlook Lisbon, and the tourist-conscious Portuguese government is prettifying up the place.

And there is a castle at Sintra, only 30 miles away, that is so enchanting in every way that even your arches forget to ache.

The Portuguese are immensely proud of two things. First, every time Spain in the old days tried to absorb her small neighbor, David licked Goliath to a standstill, and second, in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, Portugal produced the greatest race of navigator-explorers the world has ever known.

This nation is willing to admit that Christopher Columbus was fairly good, but not quite up to the mark of Magellan, DeGama, Cabral, Albuquerque, DeAndrade, DeSouza and Fernandes, to name only a few, who opened up vast new worlds for the old world.

Commander Jose Cabral, descendant of the sixteenth century explorer, lives up to the family tradition in the twentieth century. The Lindbergh of Portugal, Com. Cabral constituted the slender lifeline of air communications between free Europe and Africa during World War II.

Via aero-Portuguesa, the Commander flew American and British diplomatic papers into Africa in the tense months before the allied invasion. On more than one occasion, the Portuguese flyer carried high allied brass, including Gen. Mark Clark, to African rendezvous.

"And Gen. Clark never lost his pants when he flew with me," the Commander, now assistant to the European sales director of Trans World Airlines, said the other day. His many decorations include the American Legion of Merit and the Order of the British Empire.

The Portuguese and the British have always been sympathetic. The British have pioneered Portugal as a year-round resort. The result is that a surprising number of Portuguese speak English in the cities. And the country people are so filled with good will that it is not difficult for the tourist to get along even in sign language.

We Americans have left our mark, too, on Portugal, the great exporter of sardines. At first, the Portuguese canned skinless and boneless sardines only for whimsical American palates. Now, they prefer 'em that way themselves.

State Sales Tax Set for Senate
HARRISBURG, July 10—(INS)—A 125 million general sales tax bill approved by the House is set up for final passage today in the Senate after Democrats make their fight against the bill with amendments.

The one per cent levy, scheduled to become effective September 1, would exempt food, medicine, clothing, shoes, health needs and items already taxed directly by the Commonwealth.

Senate Democrat floor leader John H. Dent, of Westmoreland, said he will offer amendments to exempt religious articles, farm and industrial machinery.

Republican control of the Senate plus the GOP unit rule assures defeat of the dent proposals. Republicans dominate the Senate 32-18.

Airfield Operator Tells of Problems
Celebrating its 25th anniversary of the Flying Dutchman's Airfield, Ernest Buehl, the manager, gave a detailed resume of difficulties confronting operators of private aviation fields to members of the Rotary Club of Bristol.

Mr. Buehl informed members at their dinner meeting last evening a student receives a license after 40 hours of flying lessons. "This however, is not recognized by either army or navy, this seriously contributing to the lessening of new students," he added.

Buehl elaborated on restrictions imposed by C.A.A. on maintenance of equipment as well as the field proper, licensing of all employees, mentioned "high taxes," etc.

A question and answer period clarified additional points.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, July 10—Further inquiry is unnecessary to demonstrate the inadvisability of allowing Communists and their sympathizers to teach in our public schools. The evidence is already in. Testimony before the Senate Internal Security Sub-Committee has revealed in detail how Communist propaganda was pumped into the teachers of one New York City high school in a series of training courses which used the bait of salary increases to persuade the instructors to attend the lectures.

Under the guise of in-service training, a collection of professors from various teaching posts in the city organized the training courses. Training films were shown and recommended as ideal for classroom use.

For instance, the teachers viewed the film, "Brotherhood of Man," based on the pamphlet, "Races of Mankind." One of the authors of the pamphlet was Dr. Eugene Weltfish, one-time member of the anthropology department of Columbia University. She refused to tell the Senate Sub-Committee about any Communist affiliations, and she also announced in a loud voice that she endorsed Chinese Communist claims that U. S. troops used germ warfare in Korea.

The film, based on the pamphlet, was written by Ring Lardner, Jr. He was identified as a Communist before the House Committee on Un-American Activities and refused to answer questions about alleged party membership on the grounds of self-incrimination.

The New York teachers also were honored by the showing of another film, "The Cunningham Story." They were urged to use it in classrooms. The film was based on a story by Waldo Salt, who declined in 1951 to answer questions regarding any Communist affiliations.

Another film, "Don't Be a Sucker," was reviewed for the benefit of the teachers. It was written by Richard Collins, another individual who used the Fifth Amendment as his private iron curtain to avoid discussing his alleged Red party membership.

Another film shown was "The House I Live In." The author of this opus was Albert Maltz, who

Watson Land Bill To Go To House
HARRISBURG, July 10 — The state senate Wednesday passed a bill enabling the state to sell the land adjoining the canal at Levittown, in Bristol twd. and Tullytown. The measure will go before the House next week.

State Senator Edward B. Watson, of Bucks County, said this morning the legislation would not affect the canal "in any way, shape, or form." The land concerned is now being leased for parking purposes at Levittown, he said.

Senator Watson said he has heard of no attempts by Levitt & Sons to buy the land, where the builder last year had the canal covered over and piped.

The senator said the Department of Forests and Waters asked him to introduce the bill.

Films were shown of Camp Ockanichon, and a trip to the shore.

SPEEDING THE MAILS

Will all first class mail, except local and semi-local, be transported by air instead of by rail in the near future? There is a possibility of this. Delivery of letters would be speeded greatly, although the cost might be slightly higher.

Postmaster General Summerfield is reported to have asked the country's major air lines to prepare to make a test run of their capabilities to take over the task of moving practically all first class mail. Mail and freight cargo specialists for major scheduled air lines are reported to have staffs preparing schedules as well as estimates for the test.

The Postmaster General is reported to be exploring the possibilities of air transport for letters as a major project in improving the postal service and eliminating the deficit.

At a conference with the Postmaster General, representatives of the air lines estimated delivery times for most first class mail could be cut by at least two-thirds. They asserted 85 to 90 per cent of such mail designed for distant points could be carried by plane.

According to tentative plans, the first test of the switch from rail to air will be made on the New York-Chicago run. In fact, test movement of all New York-Chicago first class mail by air may be put into effect early next fall.

The air lines now move only 1.5 per cent of the country's mail volume at premium rates. Comparison of the rates paid the railroads and the air lines by the Post Office Department is not easy. Air mail is moved at a cost of 45 cents a ton mile, not including a subsidy. Railroads are paid 36 cents a ton mile for first class mail, and have asked for an increase of 45 per cent in rates. But the railroad rate includes working space for clerks who sort and redistribute mail in mail cars. Another factor involved is that air mail travels by more direct route, thus reducing the mileage. Planes would move roughly 5 per cent of the country's total mail load if all first class mail that could be handled by the air lines were turned over to them.

By air, letters can be delivered from New York to Los Angeles, or vice versa, overnight. The Post Office Department considers six days normal delivery time for letters sent by rail. It is obvious that mail deliveries would be speeded by a switch from rail movement of letters. But whether this could be done without an increase in rates can only be determined by the projected trial runs.

Commander Jose Cabral, descendant of the sixteenth century explorer, lives up to the family tradition in the twentieth century. The Lindbergh of Portugal, Com. Cabral constituted the slender lifeline of air communications between Europe and Africa during World War II.

Via aero-Portuguesa, the Commander flew American and British diplomatic papers into Africa in the tense months before the allied invasion. On more than one occasion, the Portuguese flyer carried high allied brass, including Gen. Mark Clark, to African rendezvous.

"And Gen. Clark never lost his pants when he flew with me," the Commander, now assistant to the European sales director of Trans World Airlines, said the other day. His many decorations include the American Legion of Merit and the Order of the British Empire.

The Portuguese and the British have always been sympathetic. The British have pioneered Portugal as a year-round resort. The result is that a surprising number of Portuguese speak English in the cities. And the country people are so filled with good will that it is not difficult for the tourist to get along even in sign language.

We Americans have left our mark, too, on Portugal, the great exporter of sardines. At first, the Portuguese canned skinless and boneless sardines only for whimsical American palates. Now, they prefer 'em that way themselves.

For instance, the teachers viewed the film, "Brotherhood of Man," based on the pamphlet, "Races of Mankind." One of the authors of the pamphlet was Dr. Eugene Weltfish, one-time member of the anthropology department of Columbia University. She refused to tell the Senate Sub-Committee about any Communist affiliations, and she also announced in a loud voice that she endorsed Chinese Communist claims that U. S. troops used germ warfare in Korea.

The film, based on the pamphlet, was written by Ring Lardner, Jr. He was identified as a Communist before the House Committee on Un-American Activities and refused to answer questions about alleged party membership on the grounds of self-incrimination.

Another film, "Don't Be a Sucker," was reviewed for the benefit of the teachers. It was written by Richard Collins, another individual who used the Fifth Amendment as his private iron curtain to avoid discussing his alleged Red party membership.

Louis Relin was director of the training school in New York. His featured lecturers were Robert Norton, William Frauenglass and Bernard J. Stern. All of the above invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked if they were Communists.

After viewing the filmed hogwash, the teachers were instructed by the lecturers on the techniques to use in infiltrating the minds of students. Here are the verbatim remarks of one lecturer, identified only as a "Dr. Sper" in the testimony:

"We can do things in the classroom that will make the teacher a model to pupils. Once we get the passion for world unity, it should become a day-by-day thing, almost a religion. Let us prepare ourselves by becoming informed; to educate ourselves has been the crying need for the past five years. You can enter a classroom without causing any attention from the students, as I have done. Give them no warning. I read to them this passage from Louis Adamich, 'Let's break down the idea there is an Anglo-Saxon country.' Never mind stressing unity at this time. That isn't so important. One way of introducing is gradually, like a slow drip. It is bound to make an impression on the children in time.

"Another thing that is very effective is pamphlet reading; make changes slowly, indirectly. I believe in the oblique method. For the past five years I have had pamphlets on my shelves. Office of War Information pamphlets. I give the 'Races of Mankind' as pamphlet reading every two weeks."

No one will fail to recall that OWI was the goof-ball agency of World War II, operated by Elmer Davis, the pro-New and Fair Deal radio commentator. Anything his outfit put out is automatically suspect and probably does not belong in anybody's classroom.

As a case history on how the Reds manage to get their messages into the classrooms, the New York high school teacher training course is a classic example.

Three-fourths of the 530,000 disabled men and women who have been returned to work through the State-Federal system of vocational rehabilitation in the past ten years had no job when they asked for rehabilitation services.

Films were shown of Camp Ockanichon, and a trip to the shore.

"Come now, you who say, 'Today or tomorrow we will go into such and such a town and spend a year there and trade and get gain'; whereas you do not know about tomorrow. What is your life? For you are a mist that appears for a little time and then vanishes. Instead you ought to say, 'If the Lord wills, we shall live and we shall do this or that'." — James 4:13-15 (RSV)

Our verses for today are a short sermon in themselves. They point to the frailty of human life and emphasize the fact of how much we ought to depend on God. Certainly it is a perfectly natural thing for us to plan for the future. However, James wishes to remind us that we really do not know what tomorrow will bring. Only God knows what the future holds in store. Not one of us tonight can truthfully say to himself, "I am master of my fate, I am captain of my soul".

William Shakespeare seems to reecho the words of James as he speaks of the transiency of life in Macbeth: "Out, brief candle! Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage, and then is heard no more." What is your life? A brief candle says the Bard of Avon. Only a mist says the Word of God. Yet we oftentimes act as though we were our own creators and that we had fashioned with our own hands the wonders of nature 'round about us. Truly, as the psalmist says we are His people and the sheep of His pasture. It is He that hath made us and not we ourselves; and only this great God of all Creation can say, Tomorrow it will be thus and so."

James further suggests that we ought to live our lives in the context of the will of God. We ought to pray, "Thy will be done." And in the light of what we believe His will is for our lives we ought to plan for tomorrow. If you no longer feel that you are close enough to God to know His will for your life, a visit to your church on this coming Sunday will help you to find the way.

Rep. King Explains Vote on Drought

(Special to The Courier)
WASHINGTON, July 10 — Congressman Karl C. King, representing Bucks and Lehigh counties, was one of but four members of the House of Representatives who yesterday voted against the drought bill.

Explaining his position, Rep. King said: "I voted against the drought relief bill with the idea that relief of starving or destitute people was not in any way involved. This bill seemed to be merely a scheme for rehabilitating the livestock for farming interests who have speculated and lost due to the occurrence of drought which is basically normal to this section."

"I don't believe it the proper function of the Federal government to rescue production enterprises of any sort which over-developed in the face of known circumstances. The over-development of this territory has been due largely to the high support prices. Now after guaranteeing producers profitable prices, the Congress today undertakes to guarantee fair weather."

VFW Parade Marks Rally in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10—(INS)—The 34th annual encampment of the state Veterans of Foreign Wars continued in Philadelphia today with a gala parade of various units up Broad street.

More than 35,000 delegates and friends throughout the state were on hand for the convale. Many of them were on hand at the annual banquet Thursday night at which Gov. John S. Fine urged listeners to associate only with "good and loyal people."

This, said the governor, is the one sure way of avoiding possible Communist taint.

"It has been shown that you cannot be guilty by association," he declared, "but there certainly can be suspicion of guilt by association."

The initial convention session heard Sen. Edward Martin justify military budget cuts proposed by President Eisenhower. Martin said that "true defense cannot be measured in terms of dollars alone."

VFW Parade Marks
Rally in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10—(INS)—The 34th annual encampment of the state Veterans of Foreign Wars continued in Philadelphia today with a gala parade of various units up Broad street.

More than 35,000 delegates and friends throughout the state were on hand for the convolve. Many of them were on hand at the annual banquet Thursday night at which Gov. John S. Fine urged listeners to associate only with "good and loyal people."

This, said the governor, is the one sure way of avoiding possible Communist taint.

"It has been shown that you cannot be guilty by association," he declared, "but there certainly can be suspicion of guilt by association."

The initial convention session heard Sen. Edward Martin justify military budget cuts proposed by President Eisenhower. Martin said that "true defense cannot be measured in terms of dollars alone."

Franklin A. C. Tips 3M Team, 12-5; Barbetta Hits Fifth

Franklin A. C. increased its grip on first place in the Bristol Softball League at the expense of the 3M's team last evening on the loser's diamond. Final tabulations were: Franklin, 12; 3M's, 5.

The winners had 10 hits to the loser's 6. Leading the batsmen were Fred Clotti and Bert Barbetta, of Franklin, who had three hits each. One of Clotti's blows was a triple.

The only consolation for 3M's was Freddie Barbetta's fifth home run of the season with Frank Bechter on base in the opening inning. In the fifth, Amy Lewis cracked out a homer with the bags unoccupied.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By "Ollie" Hobbs (Pinch-Hitting for "Joe" Elbertson)

Last week I wrote in this column that the canal was the only stream which was not polluted. Well, I have to take that back because we have had a "fish-kill" in the canal between Wheatsead and Edgely. Last Thursday, we found about 200 fish dead. We don't know what the cause was but it is being investigated.

We will know the cause and be able to give you full information at the meeting of Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, July 14th. This meeting will be one of the biggest of the year. We try to clear up the old business on fishing and start hunting on the go. If you have anything on your mind, this meeting is your chance to let us know. We would like all chairmen and their committees out for a mid-year report. The six-man team which will compete in the Long Beach Island Tournament should be announced at this meeting.

The monthly blue rock shoot will be held Sunday, July 12th at 12 o'clock noon at Bristol Fish and Game Association's club grounds, just off Route 13, west of Bath Rd.

The program will be a fifty bird, 16-yard match. Targets and purse $5, $3 from each entry to form purse, divided Lewis class 50-30-25%, each class not more than three classes, all money percentage. We have two auto-angling traps to keep the shooters busy.

The Bristol bow hunters had a long week-end at Egg Harbor, (N. J.) field shoot. The boys who took part from Bristol were Louis Farata, "Vince" Nocito, "Jim" Elliott, "Bill" Larrisey and Henry Wisinski.

The reports on bass fishing are poor. I heard of only about five fish being caught up to this time. Due to the high temperature of the water the bass are not rising to take the bait, and I doubt if there will be many taken as long as the water is around 85 degrees. You might find a spot where the water is deep and you might catch a fish or two, but you will have to fish deep to do it.

I fished the upper Delaware River on Sunday and took four nice small-mouth bass. They were from 12 to 16 inches. A 16-inch small mouth is a nice fish and a lot of fun in fast running water. I caught these fish on my home-made pet bait on which I take my trout. I made one of these baits a little bigger than I use for trout just to see if small mouth bass would take it, and it sure worked. I have taken almost any kind of fish on this bait. I cooked the bass for supper on Sunday night out in the woods; they sure were good after a hard day of fishing and I enjoyed this part of my trip almost as much as I enjoyed catching the fish. I fished the fast water in the Delaware River at Matamoras, just across the river from Port Jervis, N. Y. The river is low and hard to fish. There are many spots where you can not use a boat because of the low water. The stream has to be waded, and it sure is tough going in those big rocks. I expect to go back up again next week to try my luck again.

I want to thank the sportsmen and others who have been faithful readers of the column since I have been writing it. This will be my last week of writing the Sportsmen's Briefs. I have tried to write only about things I know to be true or which could be verified, and I really appreciated the help I was given by everyone.

So long, be seeing you out on the streams or in the woods.

Fifth Ward Stops Auto Boys' Streak, 7-0, at Memorial

The 11-game winning streak of Auto Boys and Pitcher Bill Wigham came to a halt last evening on Memorial field as Fifth Ward Sporting Club surprised the Mill Streeters with a 7-0 Bristol Softball League triumph.

It was the arm of Stanley "Butch" Koreyva which burst the bubbles of Manager Jim Capecci's team and his ace twirler, Koreyva, showing the form that gave him the pitching crown last season, held the second-placers to one hit, a batted ball which dropped in front of "Smithers" Cordisco in the second inning. Johnny Frank was the batter.

Seven batters were strikeout victims of the Warders' hurler. He walked but one man and not one runner reached second base. After Frank's hit, he was involved in a twin-killing. In the seventh, Ray Pierandozzi got on via an error but died trying to steal second. Al Larkins walked in the final inning but rested there as Constantino struck out for the final out of the game. In the nine innings, only 28 batters faced Koreyva.

Fifth Ward had 11 hits off Wigham, who had eight strikeouts to his credit. Joe Pica had three out of five with Danny Pieo and John Cordisco getting two each. The only extra base hit was a triple from the bat of Vince DiTanna in the sixth, the frame in which four hits and three errors produced four Fifth Ward tallies.

St. Ann's Downs Kaiser Metal, 6-3

St. Ann's A. A. practically clinched the championship of the Little-Bigger League last evening as it downed Kaiser Metal, 6-3, on Memorial field. It was the 15th win of the season for the "Saints," against one defeat.

Four big runs in the third gave St. Ann's the triumph and when Jim Moore showed signs of weakening in the sixth, Manager Vito Delia sent in his mound ace, Henry Schurr who fanned the side after the first two batters reached base in the 7th.

Franklin A. C. Tips 3M Team, 12-5; Barbetta Hits Fifth

Franklin A. C. increased its grip on first place in the Bristol Softball League at the expense of the 3M's team last evening on the loser's diamond. Final tabulations were: Franklin, 12; 3M's, 5.

The winners had 10 hits to the loser's 6. Leading the batsmen were Fred Clotti and Bert Barbetta, of Franklin, who had three hits each. One of Clotti's blows was a triple. The only consolation for 3M's was Freddie Barbetta's fifth home run of the season with Frank Bechter on base in the opening inning. In the fifth, Amy Lewis cracked out a homer with the bags unoccupied.

Nick Lomma was the winning pitcher with Lewis, the loser. Lomma was replaced by "Chick" Stanisky in the eighth while Chuck Hinkle took up the mound chores for 3M's in the seventh.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By "Ollie" Hobbs
(Pinch-Hitting for "Joe" Elbersson)

Last week I wrote in this column that the canal was the only stream which was not polluted. Well, I have to take that back because we have had a "fish-kill" in the canal between Wheatstreak and Edgely. Last Thursday, we found about 200 fish dead. We don't know what the cause was but it is being investigated.

We will know the cause and be able to give you full information at the meeting of Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, July 14th. This meeting will be one of the biggest of the year. We try to clear up the old business on fishing and start hunting on the go. If you have anything on your mind, this meeting is your chance to let us know. We would like all chairmen and their committees out for a mid-year report. The six-man team which will compete in the Long Beach Island Tournament should be announced at this meeting.

The monthly blue rock shoot will be held Sunday, July 12th at 12 o'clock noon at Bristol Fish and Game Association's club grounds, just off Route 13, west of Bath Rd.

The program will be a fifty bird, 16-yard match. Targets and purse $5, $3 from each entry to form purse, divided Lewis class 50-30-20%, each class not more than three classes, all money percentage. We have two auto-angling traps to keep the shooters busy.

The Bristol bow hunters had a long week-end at Egg Harbor, (N. J.) field shoot. The boys who took part from Bristol were Louis Parata, "Vince" Nocito, "Jim" Elliott, "Bill" Larrisey and Henry Wisinski.

The reports on bass fishing are poor. I heard of only about five fish being caught up to this time. Due to the high temperature of the water the bass are not rising to take the bait, and I doubt if there will be many taken as long as the water is around 85 degrees. You might find a spot where the water is deep and you might catch a fish or two, but you will have to fish deep to do it.

I fished the upper Delaware River on Sunday and took four nice small-mouth bass. They were from 12 to 16 inches. A 16-inch small mouth is a nice fish and a lot of fun in fast running water. I caught these fish on my home-made pet bait on which I take my trout. I made one of these baits a little bigger than I use for trout just to see if small mouth bass would take it, and it sure worked. I have taken almost any kind of fish on this bait. I cooked the bass for supper on Sunday night out in the woods; they sure were good after a hard day of fishing and I enjoyed this part of my trip almost as much as I enjoyed catching the fish. I fished the fast water in the Delaware River at Matamoras, just across the river from Port Jervis, N. Y. The river is low and hard to fish. There are many spots where you can not use a boat because of the low water. The stream has to be waded, and it sure is tough going in those big rocks. I expect to go back up again next week to try my luck again.

I want to thank the sportsmen and others who have been faithful readers of the column since I have been writing it. This will be my last week of writing the Sportsmen's Briefs. I have tried to write only about things I know to be true or which could be verified, and I really appreciated the help I was given by everyone.

So long, be seeing you out on the streams or in the woods.

Fifth Ward Stops Auto Boys' Streak, 7-0, at Memorial

The 11-game winning streak of Auto Boys and Pitcher Bill Wigham came to a halt last evening on Memorial field as Fifth Ward Sports Club surprised the Mill Streeters with a 7-0 Bristol Softball League triumph.

It was the arm of Stanley "Butch" Koreya which burst the bubbles of Manager Jim Capecci's team and his ace twirler, Koreya, showing the form that gave him the pitching crown last season, held the second-placers to one hit, a batted ball which dropped in front of "Smithers" Cordisco in the second inning. Johnny Frank was the batter.

Seven batters were strikeout victims of the Warders' hurler. He walked but one man and not one runner reached second base. After Frank's hit, he was involved in a twin-killing. In the seventh, Ray Pierandozzi got on via an error but tried trying to steal second. Al Larkins walked in the final inning but rested there as Costantino struck out for the final out of the game. In the nine innings, only 28 batters faced Koreya.

Fifth Ward had 11 hits off Wigham, who had eight strikeouts to his credit. Joe Pica had three out of five with Danny Pico and John Cordisco getting two each. The only extra base hit was a triple from the bat of Vince DiTanna in the sixth, the frame in which four hits and three errors produced four Fifth Ward tallies.
